

The Grapevine

Congratulations to the volunteers who worked hard to ensure that the Hankerton Street Fayre was so enjoyable and successful. Special thanks to Mary O' Brien for all the time she spent pulling it all together and ensuring everything went smoothly on the day. Thanks to a lovely, sunny day we were able to wander around at a leisurely pace and enjoy the atmosphere.

Congratulations are also due to the Hankerton Art Group (who refer to themselves as HAGS) for a vibrant and eclectic exhibition held in the John Bowen Gallery in Malmesbury Town Hall. They received many complements on their work. We can now look forward to some of the events in the autumn and winter organised by the great band of volunteers in our village. Look out for the posters around the village and come along to support them.

Editors.

I have looked after voluntarily for many years the cleaning of the Village Bus Shelter (memorial) and the grass surrounds. It has been a pleasure to do so and over the years I have had many people stop and give me their appreciation to me doing this. This season's ending will be my last year at doing this and I have decided to print this in the Grapevine to ask if anybody would like to take over from me and keep up the village effort.

Regards to you all,
David Wood

Hankerton Summer Street Fayre 2019

The weather was kind to us this year and we enjoyed glorious sunshine as the village ventured out for the 2019 Summer Fayre.

The usual selection of more traditional stalls such as Guess the Weight of the Cake, the Coconut Shy, Hoopla, Tombola, White Elephant, Raffle, Produce Stall and the always popular Splat the Rat, mixed with the more recent additions of the Water or Wine stall, Prosecco Bar, Sweet Stall and Mini-golf. These, along with mouth-watering cream teas, Childrens Games and a Photo Exhibition meant that there was something for everyone and a good time was had by all.

The usual high standard prevailed with the childrens competitions, the Build Your Own Scarecrow being won by Sam, Seb and Tom Lydiate with their Surfing Dude complete with sandy beach – very realistic!

By the end of the day an amazing total of £882 had been raised for the North Aisle. We'd like to thank everyone who contributed to the success of the Fayre from the stall holders, to those who baked or donated things or lent us tables or gazebos and to those who came along and spent their hard-earned cash. We couldn't have done it without you!

Nature Diary – October 2019.

Autumn is the season when the fruits of many trees and shrubs are most obvious, and who is not familiar with that of the Oak, the acorn. However, have you noticed that sometimes the acorns are a little deformed and bear little similarity with their normal shape? These are acorns that have been parasitized by the grubs of a Gall Wasp, and their presence has brought about a bizarre growth of the plant's tissue. The wasps themselves are rarely more than 5 mm long, so unlikely that you would see one of them, nor be able to identify something that small.

Marble Gall

There are about 90 species of Gall Wasps in the UK, and 42 of these species induce galls of various shapes and sizes on Oaks. Now is a good time to try and spot the different types.

You may have heard of the term Oak Apple, which is a gall produced by the species Biorhiza pallida, and is a soft gall, about 45 mm across with a brown papery surface. This term Oak Apple is sometimes misused to describe other galls found on oaks, so can be confusing. The Oak Apple is the gall that can be used to make an ink, which when applied to paper or parchment is extremely permanent. Making the ink involves combining a liquid prepared from the galls, with another prepared with rusty nails and vinegar, and a gelling agent (gum Arabic) to stop the ingredients separating. Wood ash can also be added to give a deeper colour. Recipes are available on the internet.

Robin's Pincushion Gall

The true Oak Apple contains numerous male and female gall wasps which emerge from the gall in June-July.

Another species produces hard, brown and woody spheres known as Marble Galls. This gall contains a single female wasp, who will emerge and lay eggs without mating with a male. This next generation is the one in which sexual reproduction takes place. The life cycles of these wasps are described as complex, and I think that I can see why.

Some galls have a more angular shape and a gnarled surface, and are very irregular. These are called Knopper Galls.

On the underside of some oak leaves you may notice numerous, flattened, pale brown discs and these are called Spangle Galls, and there are quite a few species of wasps that produce spangle galls.

Finally, another gall wasp, Diplolepis rosae, parasitizes wild roses and the gall has many long filaments, an overall pinky-red colouration and is known by the familiar name of Robin's Pincushion Gall. The gall contains a single female grub, and they undertake no sexual reproduction. I have seen these galls in Hankerton, especially up in the "fallow field" adjacent to Rookery Farm.

So as well as the leaves being eaten by many caterpillars, even the developing fruit of the oak is hijacked by insect species for its own purposes. These insects don't get it all their own way though. There are parasitic wasps that inject their eggs through the gall tissue and into the grubs of the gall wasp within. There are others known as hyperparasites that in turn inject their eggs into the grubs within the grubs. Is there no end to the twists and turns of life amongst the smaller species? See how many types of gall you can find walking around this autumn.

Steve Davies.

I'd like to introduce myself as Wiltshire Wildlife Trust's Northern Reserves Manager, with responsibility for the management of Cloatley Meadows. Hopefully most villagers will know of the reserve, which lies to the east of Hankerton and comprises a series of meadows and a small copse, but perhaps some of you aren't aware of it at all. WWT has owned the site since 2003, but we'd like to build stronger relationships with the local community, so this article is the first in a series, explaining what we do (and why) and how you can get involved.

Summer is a busy season for Cloatley, and in the last few weeks we have finished our annual hay cut of the meadows and moved our cattle from the pasture fields onto the mown grasslands to graze the aftermath.

Wildflower meadows developed historically through traditional hay cutting techniques, and we follow similar methods to maintain a sward rich in herbs. The meadows at Cloatley are awash with wildflowers, such as betony, black knapweed, pepper saxifrage, tormentil and yellow rattle. Similar to the farmers of the past, we vary our cutting period within July and August, taking into account the weather and ground conditions, and always leave an uncut margin, strip or block as pollen and nectar sources for invertebrates. It's important that we mow at this time: cut too early and the wildflowers don't get chance to flower or set seed, but cut too late and we give a competitive advantage to vigorous grasses which outcompete the more delicate herbs. Most meadow flowers are perennials, but we 'ted' (turn over) the hay before baling to partially dry it, which encourages seeds to drop onto the soil. Our haylage (wrapped bales which can be stored outside) is then fed back to our cattle when they are housed overwinter.

CQC inspection

The CQC are adopting a new technique for surgeries that attained a good inspection result on their previous inspection. Since Malmesbury Primary Care Centre received an outstanding result last time they will receive an annual phone call assessment from now on. The last CQC telephone assessment was in August 2019 and went very well.

Social Prescribing

This is intended to help patients improve their health, wellbeing and social welfare by connecting them to community services which might be run by the council or a local charity. Eg. Signposting people diagnosed with dementia to local dementia support.

The practice plans to share a full time social subscriber with other Primary Care providers.

Web site

Malmesbury Primary Care Centre Web site has lots of useful information and considerable practical suggestions, including self help advice. You can also use it for booking appointments and ordering prescriptions and view part of your medical record when logged in. Appointment bookings online are 'real time', so patients can see and accept the same vacancies as receptionists and call operators. www.malmesburypcc.nhs.uk

Surviving Winter

Winter is a tough time and keeping warm is essential to help maintain good health. Every year 300 people in Wiltshire die of cold or cold related illnesses and hundreds more struggle to keep warm. With this in mind, Wiltshire Community Foundation organise a scheme called Surviving Winter. They basically re-distribute donations and "unwanted" winter fuel payments which are given as part of the State Pension Scheme to those in need.

How can you help? The scheme relies on donations from individuals into the fund. If you feel it is something which you would like to do, please get in touch with me or the Foundation on 01380 729284 or check the website www.wiltshirecf.org.uk. If you are a taxpayer, your donation will also add Gift Aid to the donation which boosts the value which the Foundation can disperse at no cost to yourself! You could be saving a life this winter!

Are you worried about the cost of keeping warm this winter? Could you benefit from a grant from this scheme? The criteria for applications have not yet been confirmed, but if you are in receipt of Universal Credit or Pension Credit and have a disability which you receive PIP, Disability Living Allowance or Attendance Allowance, get in touch with me so that we can check if you may be entitled to apply for a grant. The process is simple, and I will do the forms with you.

As ever, I am around for general help and support on a wide variety of issues including transport, mobility and safety around the home and reducing the feeling of loneliness. Give me a call on 07557 922020 and leave a message. I will get back to you as soon as possible.

Projects:

- Tractor: After searching far and wide for a suitable set of tyres for the replacement tractor, a set have been found close to home. They were surplus to requirements and their owner was happy to donate them to the recreation centre. We are grateful to them for such a generous and timely gift, and also for the help we received fitting the tyres to the tractor.
- Heaters: The company who provided the new heating at Minety Village Hall have surveyed the hall and supplied an estimate for the installation of air-source heating. The cost is very similar to the figure we have for replacing the gas heaters. The next step is to obtain further estimates for air-source heating, as grant-giving bodies require evidence of three assessments of cost.

Autumn Quiz: Charlton Village Hall – Saturday 19th October at 7.30pm. Tickets cost £10 and include Baked Potato with a range of fillings plus Desert. For more details see the website.

Annual General Meeting: Charlton Village Hall - Thursday 14 November from 7.30pm. Please come along to learn more about the centre and how you might get involved helping to keep this important local asset going. Refreshments provided.

For information on all events please visit our Website (www.charltonvillagehall.co.uk), join the Village Hall Facebook group or look out for posters around the village.

PASSACAGLIA – 'Vivaldi Undercover'

Saturday, 5th October 2019 at 7.30pm
Malmesbury Abbey

Passacaglia is a UK-based professional ensemble specialising in music from the baroque era, played on baroque recorders, flutes, violin, viola da gamba, guitar, cello and harpsichord. With over 25 years of performing and recording experience, Passacaglia brings the music of the baroque era to life with a range of exciting, colourful and engaging programmes. Vivaldi Undercover - Vivaldi, as popular in the baroque period as now, was unashamedly imitated, borrowed-from and re-arranged by composers across Europe. In this invigorating and colourful programme, suitable for all kinds of audiences, Passacaglia explores Vivaldi's music as it masquerades in various different guises... with quirky re-workings of the Four Seasons and other concerti by Nicolas Chedeville and JS Bach, an exploration of Vivaldi's mysterious 'opus 13' and Passacaglia's own boisterous interpretation of Vivaldi's 'La Follia' Variations.

Village Garden Party and Teddy Bears' Picnic

Our thanks to William and Rowena Sanders for hosting and to everyone who came along to support and enjoy our first ever Village Garden Party and Teddy Bears' Picnic organised by the Hankerton History Group and the North Aisle Committee back in July.

The weather was glorious, the cakes were scrumptious, the Bears were magnificent, and the gardens were absolutely gorgeous. Everyone enjoyed a lovely relaxed afternoon whether they just soaked up the rays (and the Prosecco!) or indulged in something a little more energetic like the childrens games or a friendly tennis match or croquet.

All in all, a wonderful way to spend a lazy summer afternoon and raise £186 to be split between the Church and the North Aisle. Thanks to one and all.

Parish Council Meeting 2 September 2019

Result of the vote about the proposal to use the amenity area on Old Farm Close as a play area: 62 For; 37 Against. The turnout was 43%.

A committee is to be set up to implement the result. A meeting open to all residents will take place in October/November. If interested look out for advertising.

The Parish Council with the local landowner has installed a new gate opposite Common End Farm (see picture below). This gate, which is called a Bristol end gate, replaces a gate and stile and is easier to use.

It is taking longer than anticipated to install a defibrillator in the phone box. This is due to the slow wheels of bureaucracy
